A MORNING FOR Clergy

WITH
STEPHEN KIERNAN
Author of Last Rights...Rescuing the End of Life from the Medical System:

THURSDAY, MARCH 27, 2008; 9-10:30 AM
Church of our Saviour
1165 E. Rio Road, Charlottesville, Virginia

Registration begins at 8:30 AM

Mark your calendars to spend a morning with nationally known author Stephen Kiernan. This book tells the stories of people whose lives ended badly for no good reason, as well as people whose last days were among the most meaningful and fulfilling in their lives.

Stephen will focus on the spiritual opportunities that exist for people in their last days. He believes that if we can quiet the medical clamor, dying is fundamentally a spiritual act. Yet too often, it occurs in isolation or desperation. There are many ways that clergy, and whole faith communities, can enlarge their ministry to embrace mortality and help people complete their lives in fulfillment.

Come and enter into the dialogue.

Stephen Kiernan will also be speaking at an event of the Virginia Festival of the Book on Wednesday March 26, 2008 at 2:00 PM in the Earl V. Dickinson Auditorium of PVCC.

This Thursday event is sponsored by The Committee on Aging of the Episcopal Diocese of Virginia, Region 15 Ministry with Aging, The Tri-Diocesan Council on Aging, The Community Partnership for Improved Long-term Care, Hospice of the Piedmont and Central Virginia Palliative Care Initiative
