Short bio:

Virginia Diocesan Homes serves two important groups of people in our diocese: those who seek a continuing care retirement community and those who need subsidized housing. VDH not only serves as liaison between the diocese and those communities, but also assists parishes in studying whether or not developing such a community on church property is feasible for them. If the study is approved, VDH shepherds the parish through all the steps in the process to completion and beyond. In my retirement I would like to contribute to such important work by serving on the VDH Board of Trustees. I plan to move to a diocesan home in the future.

I was ordained in 1984, served various churches in the diocese, as a member of the diocesan Executive Board, and on the board of The Episcopal Conference of the Deaf while a missionary to the deaf.
