I am putting my name forward for the Standing Committee in response to the request of several colleagues that I do so. It is my hope and desire to serve this diocese which has so faithfully supported me in my ministries and continuing education. I believe that I can do this on the Standing Committee especially as a voice of intentional theological reflection. In times of transition, it can be easy to lose sight of our theological vision—to set aside such concerns until the practical business is done and all else is in place. This, I think, is a mistake. Because we are the Body of Christ, our work as Church—as a diocese—is always theological. I believe that on the Standing Committee during this time of transition, I can help us remain mindful of the theology of our work and our commitment to a theological vision.
